

As an Information Technology director for an international company, and an Amateur Radio operator, I find it disturbing to think that the DCMA or any other industry group would be inclined to restrict my fair use by asking the FCC to impose hardware and software restrictions. Please vote NO to NPRM 02-230. Rather than impose undue restrictions which would virtually eliminate any analog to digital experimentation and stifle new innovations, current copywrite laws should be enforced.